MEDIA ADVISORY

PARTNERSHIP FOR PUBLIC SERVICE HOSTS MEGA FEDERAL CAREER FAIR FOR SUMMER INTERNS AT NATIONAL BUILDING MUSEUM IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

For “Best and Brightest” Looking to Make a Difference Timing Right to Land a Federal Job, Research Shows Uncle Sam is on a Hiring Spree

WASHINGTON – On Wednesday, July 16 the Partnership for Public Service will host its largest-ever federal job fair to promote public service careers among young people – bringing together recruiters from more than 60 government agencies and thousands of Washington, D.C. summer interns, students and young job-seekers.

Despite the nation’s grim job forecast, the federal government is on a hiring spree. According to the organization’s research, Uncle Sam needs to fill 193,000 mission critical jobs by September 2009. There are federal jobs available in practically every interest and skill area, in all 50 states and around the world.

The Partnership for Public Service sends an important message to the nation’s best and brightest – Uncle Sam needs you!

WHAT: Federal Government Career Fair

WHO: Nearly 70 recruiters from federal agencies and public service organizations including the Departments of Defense, Commerce, Justice, Education, State, Energy; the CIA and FBI; the Smithsonian; National Institutes of Health; Peace Corps and more. Visit ourpublicservice.org/careerfair for additional information.

WHEN: Wednesday, July 16, 5:30 p.m.

WHERE: National Building Museum
401 F Street NW, Washington, D.C.

BACKGROUND: The Partnership for Public Service is a nonpartisan, nonprofit organization that works to revitalize the federal government by inspiring a new generation to serve and by transforming the way government works.
